Weather Update for Montgomery County

Status Update from the Office of Homeland Security and Emergency Management

MONTGOMERY COUNTY – A Winter Weather Advisory is now in effect for Montgomery County from now until 12PM tomorrow. Additionally, a Hard Freeze Warning and Wind Chill Advisory will go into effect starting at 6PM tonight for Montgomery County. A light freezing rain and sleet mix is possible as the front continues to move in this evening.

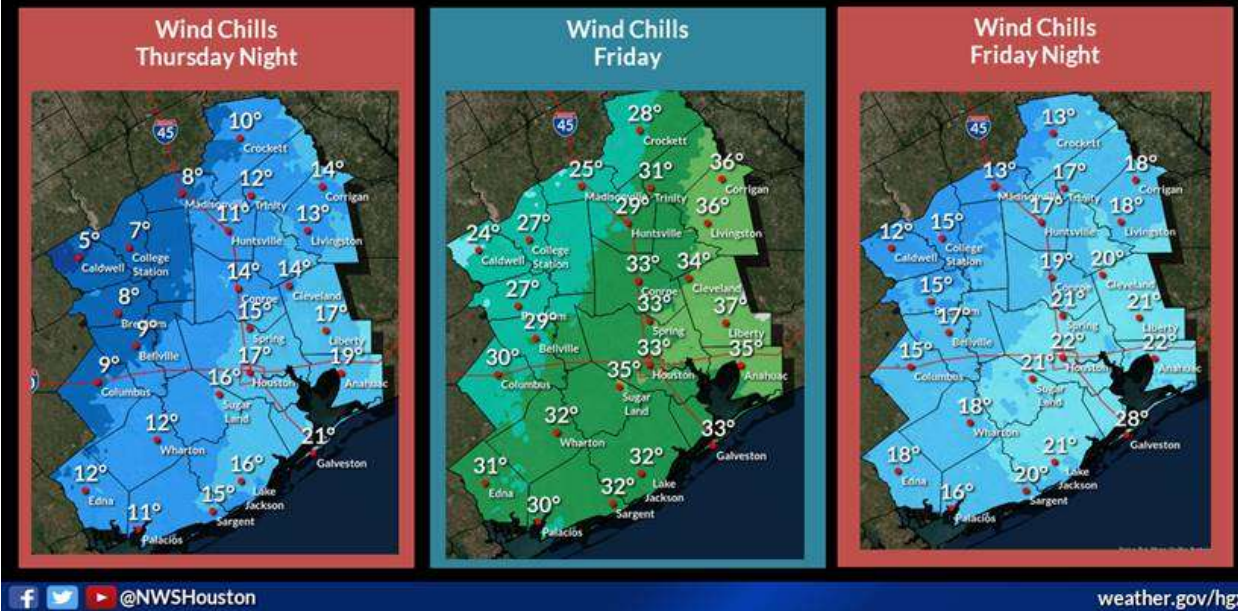

Later tonight, after temperatures have dropped below freezing, ice accumulations of up to a tenth of an inch are possible. This could cause slippery road conditions along elevated roads, bridges and overpasses overnight and into Friday morning.

Wind Chill Advisories Possible

We would like to remind our citizens to only call 911 in the event of an emergency. The Montgomery County Office of Homeland Security and Emergency Management will continue to monitor this situation and will send out updates as conditions change.

Ice and Snow, Take it Slow!

BRIDGE ICES BEFORE ROAD

Remember to take extra care while driving in winter weather, especially when approaching a bridge or an overpass. These places are dangerous as:

- There is no ground underneath allowing the entire structure to be surrounded by cold air thus making it freeze faster
- Freezing isn't uniform... shaded parts can be icy while sunny parts aren't
- Slow down before the bridge, as changing speed on ice is dangerous
